

This was my first ever Flight Simulator Design! The F16, well-known as "Fighting Falcon", is one of the favorite aircrafts of fighter-bomber pilots, 'cause it's high stability, maneuverability, and general performance. The "C" version also has improved engine respect to the "B" dual crew version, and more improved avionics. F16s are a bit old, but avionics are always updated to the standards 'cause they are used to test these new systems. They are the American response to the famous devil of the skies, the soviet MiG 29 "Fulcrum".

NOTE: OLD file provided AS-IS. We keep these as a historic memory but have very few support for these old files...
